

Skin Things
Spring edition
2009

Hello!

I sincerely hope you will enjoy this newsletter as I put forward the suggestion to spring clean your make up drawer, bathroom drawer, cosmetic bag and handbag.....and detox!

Yes, I talking about all those old lipsticks, half used jars of moisturiser and facial scrub that are full of synthetic preservatives and nasty ingredients which you don't want to waste, but don't want to use either.

Sound familiar?

Be ruthless!

So often I hear people saying "I must just finish that tub of cream before I buy another" or "I don't want to throw that eye shadow out even though it is so old!"

Well, I agree with the old saying waste not, want not, but when it comes to personal care items, there can be a health risk involved.

Cosmetics and personal care items such as moisturizers, cleansers and scrubs should be fresh, nutritious and beneficial to your skin.

Spring is the time for a fresh start.

We would like to help you as you clean out your cosmetic bag by offering you an incentive.....

Spring clean
your skin care

Get natural with
Skin Things

I have once again included a list of chemicals to avoid in this newsletter, as it is vital to be aware of the potentially hazardous chemicals found in some skin and hair care products.

Skin Things products are made right here in South Australia. We list all our ingredients on our labels and do not use any synthetic preservatives, mineral oils or petrochemicals. We rely totally on the performance of skillfully blended natural ingredients to achieve our effective skincare ranges.

Avoid products containing these chemicals:

Propylene glycol (used in brake fluid)
Parabens (butyl, ethyl, methyl, propyl...etc)
PEG compounds
Sodium lauryl sulphate (foaming agent)
Benzoyl peroxide (bleaching & drying agent)
BHT, BHA (preservatives)
DEA, TEA (emulsifiers & surfactants)
Phthalates (in nail varnishes, anti-perspirant)
Mineral oils (petroleum derivative)
Toluene (in hair gels, nail polish)

"The Chemical Maze"

A pocket size guide book which lists chemicals in food and personal care products is available in our store.

Only $16.95
